

KWS in North America

Increasing genetic potential through research and breeding.

V1 | September 2020

SEEDING
THE FUTURE
SINCE 1856

Supporting farmers through innovation.

Major crops of KWS

Corn

Sugarbeets

Wheat

Rye

Oil rapeseed

Sunflowers

Soybeans

Sorghum

Catch crops

Vegetables

KWS is a global partner developing tools and resources for farmers around the globe.

Since 1856 KWS has had one focus around the world: to sow the future. Our high yielding seed and collaboration with farmers and producers has made KWS a trusted partner. We are continuously improving genetic potential through leading-edge research and breeding programs. As a seed specialist we tailor our seed to the needs and requirements of customers, providing a strong partnership that offers value.

Key facts about KWS

- A global plant breeding company
- More than 5,500 employees in 70 countries
- 38% of employees work in research and breeding activities
- 15% of turnover reinvested in research and breeding programs
- Major crops include corn, sugarbeets, rapeseed, cereals, sunflower and vegetables

KWS in North America.

- KWS Seeds, LLC – sugarbeets, Bloomington, MN
- KWS Gateway Research Center, St. Louis, MO
- KWS Cereals – Champaign, IL

Two workers at the Gateway Research Center focusing on corn research.

Sugarbeet harvest in Michigan..